H. M. JOHNSOY IS ASKED TO RESIGN

St. Paul, Minn., July 23.—(U.P.)—H. M. Johnson, secretary of the rural credits bureau, was asked to resign today by Governor Floyd E. Olson. Johnson has been the center of a controversy after reported deficits nearing $400,000 was discovered in the bureau's records.

In his letter asking Johnson's dismissal, effective August 1, Gov. Olson charged that he has allowed personal interests and ambitions to interfere with the proper administration of the department.

Shortly before Johnson was asked to resign, he issued a statement in which he declared that the department was used as a political football, and that he was carrying on his fight not for personal reasons, but for the benefit of the farmers of Minnesota.

The steps taken today brought out into the open the controversy between Johnson and C. F. Gaarenstroom, the chairman of the board, which has been smoldering for the past few weeks.

Johnson is the first of Gov. Olson's own appointees to have been asked to resign.

STIMSON REPORTS CONFERENCE IS TO AID GERMANY

SECRETARY OF STATE GOES TO BERLIN FOR CLOSE-UP VIEW ON SITUATION

INTERNATIONAL COMMITTEE TO STUDY SHORT TERM CREDIT NEEDS OF GERMANY

By JOSEPH H. BAIRD (United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, July 23.—Sec. of State Stimson reported to the state department today that the London conference had agreed on relief measures for Germany. He said he would go to Berlin tomorrow for a close-up view of the situation there.

Ray Atherton, counselor of embassy at London, read acting Secretary of State Stimson the text of the London agreement. Castle said he regarded the adopted program as full achievement of the goal of German relief set by the conference.

It is anticipated here that the international committee set up to study Germany's short term credit needs will organize within a few days. Castle said that inasmuch as it was a banker's rather than a governmental committee, the United States would not be represented officially. It is presumed that American bankers will be represented on this body.

Officials expressed confidence that the London program would result in stabilization of German finance and in increased confidence in the economic strength of the Reich. With these expected developments it is believed that Germany will have no trouble in obtaining further needed credits.

By HERBERT MOORE (United Press Staff Correspondent)

London, July 23.—The historic seven-power statesman's conference ended today with complete accord on temporary emergency measures designed to save Germany from financial ruin. The statesmen rose at 12:20 P. M., terminating the deliberations begun last Monday.

The United Press was informed on reliable, though unofficial, authority that the plenary session which met from 10 A. M. until noon approved the report of the finance ministers, suggesting ways and means temporarily to solve the German economic crisis. Confirmation of the unofficial report that the plenary had approved the finance ministers' report was given the United States by Tsuneo Matsudaira, Japanese ambassador to Great Britain and delegate to the conference.

The delegates from the seven nations—the United States, Great Britain, France, Germany, Italy, Belgium and Japan—appeared optimistic. They expressed the opinion that "real progress" had been made toward solving the German financial debacle and in beginning a new era of international co-operation unprecedented in history.

America throughout the crisis maintained her leadership recently established in world political affairs. The finance ministers' plan was in the main the "second Hoover plan," although delegates preferred to call it the Anglo-American proposals.

London, July 23.—American banks have already been organizing to stabilize German credits. Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson told the press today after conclusion of the seven-power sessions.

He said the work has been done under leadership of the federal reserve system, and that similar steps have been taken by the Bank of England. Promise of the same kind of action has been made by the Bank of France and other creditors.

Appeal to Federal Government For Aid to Combat Grasshopper Plague in Northwest

CROPS RUINED THROUGHOUT ALL NORTH NEBRASKA

REP. EDGAR HOWARD OF NEBRASKA VOICES PLEA FOR HIS STATE

ALL GREEN THINGS IN THEIR TRAIL DEVoured BY THE 'HOPPERS'

Washington, July 23.—(U.P.)—An appeal for help in combatting an invading army of grasshoppers that is devastating crops in northern Nebraska was considered by the department of agriculture.

The call for federal reinforcements in the war against the swarms of hungry insects was brought to Washington by Rep. Edgar Howard of Nebraska, "free democrat," newspaper publisher, and one-time protégé of William Jennings Bryan.

All green things have been devoured by the grasshoppers in some parts of the state and many farms left desolate, Howard said. He believed federal experts who are experienced in fighting insect pests could be of great assistance to the farmers there.

Howard was told the department would be willing to aid, but it was doubtful if there was any money available for combatting grasshoppers. Howard suggested that the unused portion of the drought relief loan funds be put to this use. Officials promised to consult the solicitor general to learn whether this could be done.

If aid is not forthcoming from the department, Howard intends to carry the grasshopper issue to the White House.

Washington, July 23.—Representative Edgar Howard, "free democrat" of Nebraska, today presented to President Hoover his plan for a five-year moratorium on mortgage payments on American homes. He did not disclose after seeing Mr. Hoover what the president had said of the plan.

The Nebraska, his white hair falling almost to his shoulders, also told questioners at the White House of his efforts to get the department of agriculture to end a plague of grasshoppers in South Dakota, Nebraska, Iowa and Kansas. These pests, Howard said, while not comparable to the Biblical plague of locusts, are an inordinately fond of corn and are a menace to prairie farmers, but they do make good fish bait.

His mortgage moratorium, Howard said, flourishing a cigar, would be a boon to home owners and "is so simple that even a French diplomat could not find any German ghosts inside of it."

Winner, S. D., July 23.—Airplanes today were used to spread poison mash with which the grasshopper plague is being combatted near here. Two hundred and forty acres of corn were covered with the mash in about three hours on one farm. The mash is scattered by the air blast from the propeller.

FOREIGN MARKETS TINGE AMERICAN

UNSETTLEMENT IN LONDON AND PARIS IS REFLECTED IN NEW YORK

By ELMER C. WALZER (United Press Financial Editor)

New York, July 23.—Unsettlement in the London and Paris stock markets carried over to the New York stock exchange, with prices opening today with losses of fractions to more than a point.

Wall Street was confused by the foreign news which included adjournment of the London conferences after the statesmen had been reported to have reached favorable conclusions. Increase in the Bank of England discount rate from 2½ to 3½ per cent following heavy withdrawals of gold from London was reflected in a stronger market for the pound, but a weaker market for British government bonds.

Steel common on the first sale broke to a new low on the movement at 92 3/4 off 1-8. Other leaders followed it down and the decline continued in the early trading.

American Telephone dipped to 175 3/4 off 1-8; Case 70 1-8 off 1-8; North American 68 off 7-8; and Westinghouse Electric 65 off 3-4.

Federal Agents Net 20 Alleged Liquor Law Breakers

Mankato, Minn., July 23.—(U.P.)—Twenty persons were arraigned today on charges of violation of liquor laws, after raids on six Minnesota towns within a radius of 40 miles of Mankato. Prohibition agents, led by M. L. Harney, northwest prohibition director, confiscated about 300 gallons of mash and home brew and a quantity of alcohol and colored moonshine.

The raids were conducted simultaneously in Belle Plaine, Waterville, Montgomery, New Prague, St. Peter and Le Sueur Center.

1,000 MEN ARE BATTLING BLACK HILLS FOREST FIRE

FEDERAL FOREST RANGERS ARE AIDED BY CAVALRYMEN, MINERS AND OTHERS

FIRE IS FIRST DISCOVERED BY MRS. JOHN CUSTER, WHOSE BARN BURNED DOWN

Deadwood, S. D., July 23.—(U.P.)—A thousand men hastily mobilized today to battle one of the worst forest fires in the history of the Black Hills.

Federal forest rangers were directing the group of members of the Fourth U. S. Cavalry from Fort Meade near here, miners from Lead and volunteers from Deadwood, Sturgis and Lead in battling the flames in forests several miles southeast of Deadwood.

The rangers said that unless the fire was brought under control today it would be the worst ever seen in this vicinity and might even menace this city of several thousand inhabitants.

The fire was discovered by Mrs. John Custer, who was alone on her ranch five miles from here. The flames burned the barn on the ranch and almost before aid could be summoned the fire swept through underbrush to the woods. Dry weather, high temperatures and a brisk wind combined to hinder the fire fighters.

Mrs. Custer, who had sought to save the barn before neighbors arrived, was under care of a physician today from fatigue and over-exertion.

Throughout the night the dull red glow could be seen through the mistlike haze of smoke from the range between here and the forests. Hundreds of residents of Deadwood and farmers from the vicinity assembled to witness the sight. Many of them were to be organized today to fight the fire.

PAROLED CONVICT ACCUSED OF KILLING 2 FEDERAL AGENTS

GEORGE ADAMS, 35, CAPTURED BY FORT WAYNE, IND., CITY POLICE

ADAMS SHOT IN NECK WHEN AGENTS SOUGHT TO TRAP HIM WITH LOAD OF BEER

Fort Wayne, Ind., July 23.—(U.P.)—George Adams, 35, a paroled convict accused of shooting to death two federal prohibition agents in a gunfight on Stell Horn Bridge, was captured by city police today when he returned to hunt a doctor.

Adams, shot in the neck in the battle which developed when four federal agents attempted to trap him with a load of beer, offered no resistance to police. He was taken to a hospital, where the bullet was removed, and then was taken to jail. His injury, it was said, was not critical.

Witnesses said Adams, who was paroled seven months ago from Leavenworth prison, was the man who killed John J. Wilson, 46, of Indianapolis, and fatally wounded Walter M. Gilbert, 33, of Cincinnati, in a battle which ensued when Wilson and Gilbert and two other federal agents attempted to trap him at the bridge last night.

Two other federal agents involved were C. E. Green of Portland, Ind., and Oliver J. Gettle of Indianapolis. They said they posed as bootleggers earlier in the day and arranged for Adams to deliver a load of beer at the bridge at 8 P. M.

When Adams arrived, they said, he recognized Gilbert as the man who arrested him for bootlegging in 1929, and sensing that he had been led into a trap, he opened fire with two revolvers.

Wilson fell first, shot four times, and died instantly. Gilbert went down in an exchange of fire and Adams, blood streaming from the wound in his neck, staggered to his car and escaped.

Green and Gettle, who said they could not join in the fight as their guns were in their cars, rushed Gilbert to a hospital, where he died an hour later of a bullet wound in his lungs.

Crashes in Which Four Died

The tangled wreckage of two Army airplanes which collided 400 feet in the air near Brooks Field, San Antonio, Texas, and crashed to earth instantly killing the occupants, three Army officers and a flying cadet, is shown. The top plane was the one in which Major Charles W. Hart, pilot, of Harrisburg, Pa., and Captain Charles J. Chamberlain, of New York, perished. The bottom plane was that in which Lieut. Austin Rogers, a native of New Mexico, and Flying Cadet Endicott Longacre, of Washington, D. C., plunged to their deaths.

ODD TWISTS IN THE DAY'S NEWS

Chicago—The pride of men who believe gossiping a purely feminine shortcoming received a terrific jolt today with announcement that Thomas J. Mulcahy, a husky police sergeant, had been suspended from the force "for gossiping about other members of the department."

Luxemburg, Wis., July 23.—U. H. Bruemmer asked that his salary as clerk of the school board be reduced from $125 to $75 a year, but the board refused, ruling that his pay could not be changed during his term in office.

Chicago, July 23.—The Rogers Park police force was looking today for somebody who had lost a bronze casket. The coffin, a new one (and empty), was found on a motor truck which had been left abandoned for several days. Its value was said to be between $1,500 and $2,000.

FRONTIER DAYS ARE REENACTED IN ST. PETER PAGEANT

CELEBRATES SIGNING OF PEACE TREATY BETWEEN INDIANS AND SETTLERS

WHICH ALSO FORMALLY CONFERRED 24 MILLION ACRES TO WHITE MEN

St. Peter, Minn., July 23.—(U.P.)—Frontier days of 80 years ago when Indians mingled with the few white settlers of Minnesota were re-enacted today at the celebration of the signing of the treaty which brought peace between Indians and settlers and which formally conferred 24,000,000 acres of land to the white men.

Thousands of citizens of Minnesota gathered here to participate in the anniversary of the signing of the treaty of Traverse Des Sioux in 1851 whereby the federal government and the State of Minnesota obtained all the land lying between the St. Croix and Mississippi rivers and the sluggish Missouri.

Among those who will witness the contrast between life then and now as re-enacted in the ceremonies, will be a daughter, nine grandchildren and 19 great grandchildren of Nancy Winona McClure Faribault Higgins, the original first lady of Minnesota. The Indian princess' marriage to David Faribault, pioneer trader who used a Red River wagon as his store, was one of the incidents during the long treaty negotiations. She died last year.

More than 8,000 Indians not including tribal chiefs, soldiers, United States government officials, territorial Governor Alexander Ramsey, General Henry H. Sibley and other dignitaries were guests at the wedding.

The affair was the first social event of the territory. Her first husband, Faribault, was the son of John Baptiste Faribault, one of the first Frenchmen in Minnesota.

Today's celebration took place in Traverse Des Sioux State Park near St. Peter. One of the features of the celebration was the presentation to the state of a replica of the first log cabin built in St. Peter by Louis Iroquois, an Indian trader. Henry N. Benson, state attorney general and a native of St. Peter, made the presentation, and Grover M. Conzet, superintendent of state parks, accepted the cabin on behalf of the state.

Brigadier General W. C. Brown, of Denver, first white child born here, was a guest, together with Mrs. C. E. Furness, St. Paul, daughter of the late Governor Ramsey.

Other officials who are here include Julius A. Schmah, state treasurer, and Frank Clague and August Andersen, representatives in congress.

Contrasting with the days when beef for meat and the water in which it was boiled constituted a good meal for the officials who were working on details of the treaty will be the special gatherings at dinners and banquets tonight of various groups.

Arguments of Opposition to Freight Rate Increase to be Heard by I. C. C.

Washington, July 23.—(U.P.)—Arguments of shippers, agricultural interests and others opposing the proposed 15 per cent railroad freight increase will be heard by the interstate commerce commission beginning August 10 and extending throughout the month, it was announced today.

Sectional hearings will be held at San Francisco, Portland, Ore., Kansas City, Mo., Dallas, Texas, Salt Lake City, Atlanta, Chicago, and some point in New England.

Federal prohibition officers picked the noon hour and a downtown Brainerd jewelry store today to culminate a series of rum raids in and near the city.

Six prisoners in all were taken in the raids by the officers. All were to be brought before U. S. Commissioner A. D. Polk this afternoon on charges of sale and possession of liquor.

At the raid of the jewelry store at 606 Laurel street, Edward J. Steinerwald, jeweler, and Edward Eckstrom, who operates a lunch counter in the same establishment, were taken into custody. A quantity of liquor was said to have been seized. Steinerwald gives his home address as Minneapolis.

Arrested Again! Clarence Nordstrom and Lucille Nordstrom, who recently were ordered to trial at the Duluth federal court on rum charges which cases have not yet been disposed of, were again mixed up on rum charges today, being arrested by federal officers. The two live near the Mississippi river in the vicinity of Merrifield.

Brainerd Men Nabbed Two other alleged liquor dealers were also in custody today. Arman Hill, 1208 Laurel Street, and Joseph Lyons, 213 Laurel Street, are the alleged bootleggers.

The arrests today came after a general closing up of beer and "alky" catering establishments in Crow Wing county as the majority decided to quit temporarily until the searchlight is turned off.

The raids in this territory are part of a state wide drive by the federal department on moonshine and beer peddlers and caterers.

ATTEMPT TO KILL CHINESE FINANCE MINISTER SOONG

LATTER IS ALSO ACTING PRESIDENT OF CHINA, SOONG IS UNHURT

YULOO TONG, ADVISOR IN FINANCE MINISTRY, FATALLY WOUNDED

Shanghai, China, July 23.—(U.P.)—A futile attempt was made to assassinate T. V. Soong, finance minister and acting president of China, on his arrival by train from Nanking today.

Soong was unhurt. Yuloo Tong, an advisor in the finance ministry, was fatally wounded and several persons were injured, including one of Soong's bodyguard.

The attack occurred at North Station, terminal of the Shanghai-Nanking railroad just outside the international settlement or foreign area, of Shanghai. The assassins threw a bomb and opened up with rifle and pistol fire as Soong and his party stepped off the train.

Minister Soong threw himself to the ground, pretending he was hit. The assailants fled when police and Soong's bodyguard returned their fire.

The minister scrambled to his feet and hurried to a waiting motor car. He drove to his residence in the French concession, also a part of the foreign area of Shanghai.

Yuloo Tong, fatally wounded, suffered wounds in the shoulder and abdomen. Three bystanders were among the injured.

In an interview later with the United Press, Soong blamed the attack on Cantonese enemies of the national government. He declared that four assassins on both sides of him fired dozens of shots besides hurling the bombs.

Soong drew his own revolver, he said, and then threw away his metal gun helmet to make himself inconspicuous. Two of his bodyguards and several passengers on the train were wounded. Guards finally cleared the station.

Prohibition agents, led by M. L. Harney, northwest prohibition director, confiscated about 300 gallons of mash and home brew and a quantity of alcohol and colored moonshine.

The raids were conducted simultaneously in Belle Plaine, Waterville, Montgomery, New Prague, St. Peter and Le Sueur Center.

1,000 MEN ARE BATTLING BLACK HILLS FOREST FIRE

FEDERAL FOREST RANGERS ARE AIDED BY CAVALRYMEN,
MINERS AND OTHERS

FIRE IS FIRST DISCOVERED BY MRS. JOHN CUSTER, WHOSE BARN BURNED DOWN

Deadwood, S. D., July 23.—(U.P.)—A thousand men hastily mobilized today to battle one of the worst forest fires in the history of the Black Hills.

Federal forest rangers were directing the group of members of the Fourth U. S. Cavalry from Fort Meade near here, miners from Lead and volunteers from Deadwood, Sturgis and Lead in battling the flames in forests several miles southeast of Deadwood.

The rangers said that unless the fire was brought under control today it would be the worst ever seen in this vicinity and might even menace this city of several thousand inhabitants.

The fire was discovered by Mrs. John Custer, who was alone on her ranch five miles from here. The flames burned the barn on the ranch and almost before aid could be summoned the fire swept through underbrush to the woods. Dry weather, high temperatures and a brisk wind combined to hinder the fire fighters.

Mrs. Custer, who had sought to save the barn before neighbors arrived, was under care of a physician today from fatigue and over-exertion.

Throughout the night the dull red glow could be seen through the mist-like haze of smoke from the range between here and the forests. Hundreds of residents of Deadwood and farmers from the vicinity assembled to witness the sight. Many of them were to be organized today to fight the fire.

PAROLED CONVICT ACCUSED OF KILLING 2 FEDERAL AGENTS

GEORGE ADAMS, 35, CAPTURED
BY FORT WAYNE, IND.,
CITY POLICE

ADAMS SHOT IN NECK WHEN
AGENTS SOUGHT TO TRAP
HIM WITH LOAD OF BEER

Fort Wayne, Ind., July 23.—(U.P.)—George Adams, 35, a paroled convict accused of shooting to death two federal prohibition agents in a gunfight on Still Horn Bridge, was captured by city police today when he returned to hunt a doctor.

Adams, shot in the neck in the battle which developed when four federal agents attempted to trap him with a load of beer, offered no resistance to police. He was taken to a hospital, where the bullet was removed, and then was taken to jail. His injury, it was said, was not critical.

Witnesses said Adams, who was paroled seven months ago from Leavenworth prison, was the man who killed John J. Wilson, 46, of Indianapolis, and fatally wounded Walter M. Gilbert, 33, of Cincinnati, in a battle which ensued when Wilson and Gilbert and two other federal agents attempted to trap him at the bridge last night.

Two other federal agents involved were C. E. Green of Portland, Ind., and Oliver J. Gettle of Indianapolis. They said they posed as bootleggers earlier in the day and arranged for Adams to deliver a load of beer at the bridge at 8 P. M.

When Adams arrived, they said, he recognized Gilbert as the man who arrested him for bootlegging in 1929, and sensing that he had been led into a trap, he opened fire with two revolvers.

Wilson fell first, shot four times, and died instantly. Gilbert went down in an exchange of fire and Adams, blood streaming from the wound in his neck, staggered to his car and escaped.

Green and Gettle, who said they could not join in the fight as their guns were in their cars, rushed Gilbert to a hospital, where he died an hour later of a bullet wound in his lungs.

FACES CHARGES CHILD ABANDONMENT

St. Paul, Minn., July 23.—(U.P.)—Ordering removing Robert P. Weske, 24, of Morton, Minn., to Washington, D. C., where he faces child abandonment charges were signed today by Judge J. B. Sanborn. Weske, a former service man, was arrested July 21 at Morton on an indictment returned at Washington.

Crashes in Which Four Died

The tangled wreckage of two Army airplanes which collided 400 feet in the air near Brooks Field, San Antonio, Texas, and crashed to earth, instantly killing the occupants, three Army officers and a flying cadet, is shown. The top plane was the one in which Major Charles W. Hart, pilot, of Harrisburg, Pa., and Captain Charles J. Chamberlain, of New York, perished. The bottom plane was that in which Lieut. Austin Rogers, a native of New Mexico, and Flying Cadet Endicott Longacre, of Washington, D. C., plunged to their deaths.

ODD TWISTS IN THE DAY'S NEWS

Chicago—The pride of men who believe gossiping a purely feminine shortcoming received a terrific jolt today with announcement that Thomas J. Mulcahy, a husky police sergeant, had been suspended from the force "for gossiping about other members of the department."

Luxemburg, Wis., July 23.—U. H. Bruemmer asked that his salary as clerk of the school board be reduced from $125 to $75 a year, but the board refused, ruling that his pay could not be changed during his term in office.

Chicago, July 23.—The Rogers Park police force was looking today for somebody who had lost a bronze casket. The coffin, a new one (and empty), was found on a motor truck which had been left abandoned for several days. Its value was said to be between $1,500 and $2,000.

FRONTIER DAYS ARE REENACTED IN ST. PETER PAGEANT

CELEBRATES SIGNING OF PEACE
TREATY BETWEEN INDIANS AND SETTLERS

WHICH ALSO FORMALLY CON-
FERRED 24 MILLION ACRES TO WHITE MEN

St. Peter, Minn., July 23.—(U.P.)—Frontier days of 80 years ago when Indians mingled with the few white settlers of Minnesota were re-enacted today at the celebration of the signing of the treaty which brought peace between Indians and settlers and which formally conferred 24,000,000 acres of land to the white men.

Thousands of citizens of Minnesota gathered here to participate in the anniversary of the signing of the treaty of Traverse Des Sioux in 1851 whereby the federal government and the State of Minnesota obtained all the land lying between the St. Croix and Mississippi rivers and the sluggish Missouri.

Among those who will witness the contrast between life then and now as re-enacted in the ceremonies, will be a daughter, nine grandchildren and 19 great grandchildren of Nancy Winona McClure Faribault Huggins, the original first lady of Minnesota. The Indian princess' marriage to David Faribault, pioneer trader who used a Red River wagon as his store, was one of the incidents during the long treaty negotiations. She died last year.

More than 8,000 Indians not including tribal chiefs, soldiers, United States government officials, territorial Governor Alexander Ramsey, General Henry H. Sibley and other dignitaries were guests at the wedding.

The affair was the first social event of the territory. Her first husband, Faribault, was the son of John Baptist Faribault, one of the first Frenchmen in Minnesota.

Today's celebration took place in Traverse Des Sioux State Park near St. Peter. One of the features of the celebration was the presentation to the state of a replica of the first log cabin built in St. Peter by Louis Iroquois, an Indian trader. Henry N. Benson, state attorney general and a native of St. Peter, made the presentation, and Grover M. Conzet, superintendent of state parks, accepted the cabin on behalf of the state.

Brigadier General W. C. Brown, of Denver, first white child born here, was a guest, together with Mrs. C. E. Furness, St. Paul, daughter of the late Governor Ramsey.

Other officials who are here include Julius A. Schmah, state treasurer, and Frank Clague and August Andresen, representatives in congress.

Contrasting with the days when beef for meat and the water in which it was boiled constituted a good meal for the officials who were working on details of the treaty will be the special gatherings at dinners and banquets tonight of various groups.

Arguments of Opposition to Freight Rate Increase to be Heard by I. C. C.

Washington, July 23.—(U.P.)—Arguments of shippers, agricultural interests and others opposing the proposed 15 per cent railroad freight increase will be heard by the interstate commerce commission beginning August 10 and extending throughout the month, it was announced today. Sectional hearings will be held at San Francisco, Portland, Ore., Kansas City, Mo., Dallas, Texas, Salt Lake City, Atlanta, Chicago, and some point in New England.

FEDERALS BUSY IN MOPUP DRIVE; NAB SIX IN TERRITORY

STEUERWALD AND ECKSTROM ARRESTED IN SEARCH OF
606 LAUREL STREET

OTHERS PICKED UP WERE CLAR-
ENCE AND LUCILLE NORD-
STROM, HILL AND LYONS

Federal prohibition officers picked the noon hour and a downtown Brainerd jewelry store today to culminate a series of rum raids in and near the city.

Six prisoners in all were taken in the raids by the officers. All were to be brought before U. S. Commissioner A. D. Polk this afternoon on charges of sale and possession of liquor.

At the raid of the jewelry store at 606 Laurel street, Edward J. Steuerwald, jeweler, and Edward Eckstrom, who operates a lunch counter in the same establishment, were taken into custody. A quantity of liquor was said to have been seized. Steuerwald gives his home address as Minneapolis.

Arrested Again!
Clarence Nordstrom and Lucille Nordstrom, who recently were ordered to trial at the Duluth federal court on rum charges which cases have not yet been disposed of, were again mixed up on rum charges today, being arrested by federal officers. The two live near the Mississippi river in the vicinity of Merrillfield.

Brainerd Men Nabbed
Two other alleged liquor dealers were also in custody today. Arman Hill, 1208 Laurel Street, and Joseph Lyons, 213 Laurel Street, are the alleged bootleggers.

The arrests today came after a general closing up of beer and "alky" catering establishments in Crow Wing county as the majority decided to quit temporarily until the searchlight is turned off.

The raids in this territory are part of a state wide drive by the federal department on moonshine and beer peddlers and caterers.

ATTEMPT TO KILL CHINESE FINANCE MINISTER SOONG

LATTER IS ALSO ACTING PRESI-DENT OF CHINA, SOONG IS UNHURT

VULOO TONG, ADVISOR IN FIN-ANCE MINISTRY, FATALLY WOUNDED

Shanghai, China, July 23.—(U.P.)—A futile attempt was made to assassinate T. V. Soong, finance minister and acting president of China, on his arrival by train from Nanking today.

Soong was unhurt.

Yuloo Tong, an advisor in the finance ministry, was fatally wounded and several persons were injured, including one of Soong's bodyguards. The attack occurred at North Station, terminal of the Shanghai-Nanking railroad just outside the international settlement or foreign area, of Shanghai. The assassins threw a bomb and opened up with rifle and pistol fire as Soong and his party stepped off the train.

Minister Soong threw himself to the ground, pretending he was hit. The assailants fled when police and Soong's bodyguard returned their fire.

The minister scrambled to his feet and hurried to a waiting motor car. He drove to his residence in the French concession, also a part of the foreign area of Shanghai.

Yuloo Tong, fatally wounded, suffered wounds in the shoulder and abdomen. Three bystanders were among the injured.

In an interview later with the United Press, Soong blamed the attack on Cantonese enemies of the national government. He declared that four assassins on both sides of him fired dozens of shots besides hurling the bombs.

Soong drew his own revolver, he said, and then threw away his metal gun helmet to make himself inconspicuous. Two of his bodyguards and several passengers on the train were wounded. Guards finally cleared the station.

The meeting lasted about two hours. It was held in the pope's private library. Several cardinals were questioned but refused to disclose the purpose of the meeting.

ILLEGAL OPERATION

Chicago, July 23.—(U.P.)—Found guilty of causing the death of an Angora, Minn., girl by an illegal operation, Dr. Thomas J. Ney of Chicago was under sentence today to serve 15 years in prison.

A jury deliberated two hours and a half before finding Ney guilty last night of causing the death of Miss Elma Bromps, 20, on April 15. Jurors later said they agreed on the question of guilt on the first ballot and spent the rest of the time agreeing upon a sentence.

Ney also is under indictment in connection with the death of Miss Eunice McElroy, 21, who died in 1928. The doctor has obtained 27 continuances in that case.

CAUSING DEATH BY
ILLEGAL OPERATION

Chicago, July 23.—(UP)—Found guilty of causing the death of an Angora, Minn., girl by an illegal operation, Dr. Thomas J. Ney of Chicago was under sentence today to serve 15 years in prison.

A jury deliberated two hours and a half before finding Ney guilty last night of causing the death of Miss Elma Bromps, 20, on April 15. Jurors later said they agreed on the question of guilt on the first ballot and spent the rest of the time agreeing upon a sentence.

Ney also is under indictment in connection with the death of Miss Eunice McElroy, 21, who died in 1928. The doctor has obtained 27 continuances in that case.

Nicholas Mouschanoff, minister of the interior, threatened drastic measures to suppress the disorders, including internment of communist deputies.

Mrs. John Gibson gave a very interesting account of the district meeting at Aitkin, but considerably shortened the report, because of the late hour and the speakers to follow. The talk by E. W. Nelson of Brainerd on "Co-operation, and is the game worth while" was instructive as well as enjoyable. Mr. Richmond also gave some very interesting information about the Japanese Kudju Vine, that is winning great favor in the east, as a high protein hay for dairy stock and also for enriching light and worn out soils.

The program was concluded by a couple of musical pieces, rendered by Master Lively on cornet.

Lunch was served and a general social time had. The meeting voted to meet at Beaver Dam school the third Friday in August, being the 21st.

This community was saddened to learn of the death last Friday morning of Mrs. Edw. Boppel. The remains were buried Sunday at Deerwood.

"Majority" and "Plurality"

If a candidate for office receives more votes than all the other contestants combined—more than 50 per cent of the total—he receives a majority. If he receives more votes than any other candidate, even though less than 50 per cent of the total, he receives merely a plurality. When there are only two contestants the plurality and majority are the same.—Exchange.

A THOROUGHLY staid nation, one with all the flamboyance of flaming youth entirely removed, one which will become "set" in its ways, which will check new accessions from the old countries and because of the further fact of a declining birth rate, will have a stationary population, is the not over happy or encouraging picture of America painted by W. F. Webster, former superintendent of schools of Minneapolis, as he spoke at the Rotary session, at the behest of his friend, G. D. LaBar.

Mr. Webster is no alarmist but a student of public affairs, one who has covered all America in his travels, who is as well acquainted in the capitals of Europe as the capitals of the states, who has crossed the Atlantic eight times, who has examined into things as they affect the great body of American people.

At the time of the Ostend convention of International Rotary he was a delegate from Minneapolis Rotary and on his travels met Mr. LaBar of Brainerd Rotary club. Together they attended the Rotary sessions and also hobnobbed on travels about Europe after the sessions.

Mr. Webster at the start of his address took exception to a broad statement made by President Hoover at Indianapolis to the effect that America, too, had a five year plan of expansion of 20,000,000 or more increase in population and a consequent increase in housing facilities, more factories, more payrolls, more everything connected with such a growth.

And then came the disquieting conclusions of Mr. Webster that our population of the country at large is not growing as it used to. Immigration laws have cut down accessions, and the quotas and the deportations have been exercised in full vigor. In the early history of the republic the nation's growth was rapid, but now it has been slowed down. Large cities are growing larger and the smaller towns grow smaller. Use of machinery is displacing the work of the hands of many people. The birth rate is decreasing. Every one knows that it costs more and more money to raise children, educate and feed them.

An unusual assertion for Mr. Webster to make is that people highly nervous and trained generally have no children. The stupid people have the children.

In this evident check to growth of population, as shown in various angles, it brings about various changes in economics. Smaller families require less shelter, they build smaller houses or require smaller apartments. Their wants are fewer. They use less clothes, less fuel, less light, spend less on amusements, require fewer luxuries.

No capital in Europe can show such luxurious apartments as have been provided in Washington, D. C., for couples. The capital of the American nation has no factories. Its workers are those in various government departments. In the average modern home of that class one finds the wife at work and the husband too. Their apartments for two have no place or room for children, and they seldom have children. It shows the modern trend to childless marriages.

The doctrine of Malthus relied on floods, wars, pestilence to keep down population growth and glimpsed the time that population might exceed food supply. But the world today is "long" on food. There seems no danger of over populating the globe.

America, heading to a population of mature people, may register such changes in economics and other phases in 10 years, as would astonish us of the present day.

Taming the Flu

A COMMENDABLE piece of work has been done by a scientist who has sorted out the root to flu and other germs and thus is on the track to tame the flu, infantile paralysis, rheumatism and like diseases.

Of course, in these days, where the flu epidemic has been laid low, it is only the hay fever sufferers that carry due regard and respect for the flu ailment. It is believed by many that hay fever is a distant cousin of the flu and that its subjection will be near following the recent discovery in germ control.

Thus one by one science is overcoming the various phases of the specter of disease. In its train it has overcome typhus, smallpox, diphtheria, tetanus, etc., thus lengthening the span of life.

Illiteracy Here

THERE is illiteracy in Brainerd. For instance, various classes of business which require that receipts be attached to merchandise delivered, find a large number of people attaching the proverbial "X," and sometimes the "X" is most crudely drawn, for a signature.

Neglected opportunities and inability to secure an education in the old days are responsible for the state of affairs. However, in these modern days of night schools, of schools for backward adults, there should never be a condition of affairs that precludes an individual from learning to write his own name.

A BANK holdup with the customers lying on the floor and their chins touching the same, does not give these non-combatants much of a view of the proceedings. Their report can only be what they hear and the sensations felt. It is a place of danger, too, for a crazed gunman may shoot a customer merely because there is something displeasing about him.

IT is tantalizing to work in the shadow of a restaurant and to gain the various odors, but be unable to eat at the time. First one gets the smell of rich beefsteaks, then of toast, shortly after the soups come and then the dinner. Every incentive to eat, but no chance until work shuts down.

ACCORDING to all reports the tourist business is "picking up" in the Brainerd Lake Region. Hotels and other resorts are gaining larger week end business and more to fill in the week. Individual cottages are being rented, too, and inquiries are increasing.

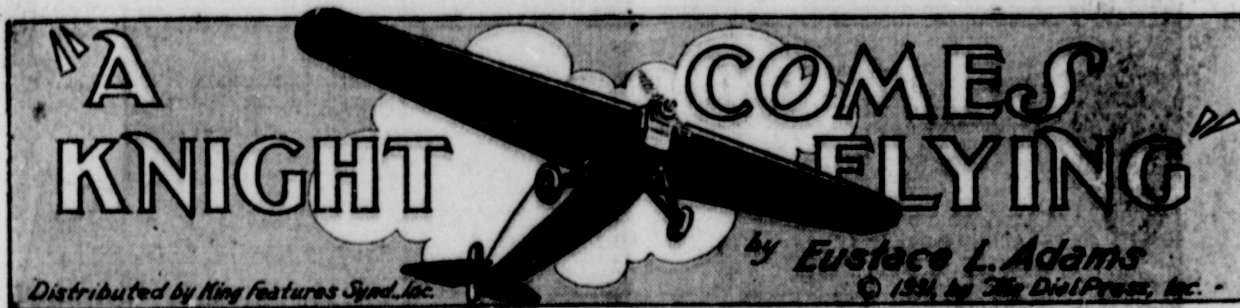

GOLD pan prospectors have resumed placer mining along the Black Hills streams near Deadwood, S. D. The activity is said to rival the famous 1876 rush.

CROW WING county is gaining a fine reputation because of its good roads, the numerous new projects and the maintenance work intelligently carried on.

COMMITTEES are being named for the convention of the State Parent Teachers association to be held in Brainerd this fall.

LOOK WELL BEFORE SHOOTING

CHAPTER XXXIV.

THREE men were running toward the slowly moving amphibian. As they reached its side the clumsy-looking ship began to gather speed. Two of the running men managed to work their way over the round mahogany hull and into the cockpit. The third slipped, clutched the cowl with one hand and remained clinging there, his feet dragging on the ground. The plane's wheels left the earth. The clinging man held on, twisting in the wind blast as the heavy ship climbed. Then he let go. The plane went on, disappearing in the darkness over the northern end of the field. Only the motionless, sprawling figure remained to mark its passing.

Dave's throttle was closed. He was whirling down in a dizzy spiral. As the little ship spun toward the earth he caught a hazy glimpse of a second car on the field. But the image was blurred and, for the moment, he was not interested. He had eye only for Joan, who was running from the stalled truck. His wheels smacked the ground close by her side. Automatic in hand, he leaped out of the cockpit before the plane ceased moving. She was still running. She screamed as he caught her and threw his right arm around her slender body. She struck at him. "Joan!" he called sharply, "Joan!"

At the sound of his voice her flailing hands dropped to her side. His left arm surrounded her and he drew her close to him. And she was utterly content to remain in his protecting arms, sheltered from the seething tide of conflict that had, but an instant before, raged and swirled around her. She was no longer the self-sufficient, competent mistress of the plantation house. She was a befuddled, bewildered girl, whose world had suddenly erupted to the sound of harsh voices spitting guns and roaring motors.

After the Battle.

"Nice place for a clinic," Gerry observed, owlishly, swinging the tonneau door open. "Has anybody told you there's a lovely war going on?"

"I'm all right, now," smiled Joan, looking up into Dave's bronzed face.

With an easy swing of his powerful arms he lifted her to the tonneau and leaped in beside her. The entire field was strangely still. The men who, a moment before, had been running, shooting and yelling, had disappeared. The car jumped ahead, skidded around in a great circle and sped across the turf toward the Ford.

"Who's in that Ford?" demanded Dave, staring over Gerry's shoulder.

"Oh, Babs and Sally and Hannah," said Gerry, morosely, "and probably any other women who happen to be in this part of the country. I knew it couldn't be a man's fight." He jammed on the brakes as the powerful car reached the side of the rusty little Ford. Hannah, almost incoherent in her joy, pushed herself to her feet, her ivory and gold teeth showing in a wide-mouthed smile.

"Fo' Gawd, Miss Joan," she shrieked. "I thought you was dead!"

Reluctantly Dave released the warm little hand that had slipped so trustingly into his own. There was silence on the field now, but at any instant the battle might break out anew.

"Can you get back to the house, Gerry," he asked, "before you have to change that tire?"

"Sure," Gerry nodded. "It's all shot now. Might as well finish it."

The Last Act.

"Hannah," said Dave. "You get in here with Miss Joan. Then everyone but Talbot beat it to the house. He and I have some business here."

Hannah rolled a mustang eye at Gerry. "Miss Joan," she begged, "y'all get in dis little bitzy car wid me. I doan' trus' dat man. He like to of killed me in dat house back yonder."

Barbara promptly crawled out of the Ford.

"In that case," she said, "I'll ride back with Gerry darling. He seems to have sobered up."

Gerry sighed regretfully. "If I thought it might start another ruckus, I'd get me another skunkful," he said earnestly.

Joan descended from the Hispano-Suiza and climbed into the creaking Ford. She was still white and shaken. Sally patted her shoulder.

"Let's go, Talbot," said Dave, impatiently. "Those gunmen may start shooting again." His eyes met Joan's. He smiled softly and waved. "See you all later."

The two cars got under way. Dave resolutely turned his eyes toward the hangar. As he and Talbot walked warily across the field there was no sign of the gunmen. Except for the still forms that lay on the ground and for the brilliant illumination of the yawning shed, the place was as desolate as the abandoned sub-division of Cathay.

The motor truck, its engine silent, stood alone near the hangar door. Mueller's sub-calibre machine gun lay almost on the concrete ramp. Dave passed Joan's automatic to Talbot and picked up the heavy gun. Its clip of bullets was but half empty.

From the shadows of the orange grove came a hail.

"Hey, you guys!" "Get out of the light, Talbot," Dave snapped. Then, lifting his voice, "Well?"

"If we give up," came the voice, "will you let us get away?" "Drop your guns and come over here," shouted Dave, grimly. "Keep your hands over your heads or I'll turn this machine gun on you."

First singly, then by twos and threes, Mueller's men straggled slowly, hesitatingly, across the moonlit clearing. When they had reached the brilliantly lighted space in front of the hangar door, Dave signalled for them to halt.

One man stepped forward. Dave's muscles grew taut. It was Mueller's Italian bodyguard, the thick-necked gunman who had held him erect and helpless while the gang leader had battered him into unconsciousness.

"Listen, feller," said the Italian, smiling placatingly. "We all got enough, see? How about letting us go on the lam?"

"Talbot," said Dave, slowly, "you take this machine gun a minute. Keep the rest of those plug-uglies covered and if they move, let them have all the rest of the bullets in the clip. I'm going to tear that wop to pieces with my two hands."

"You're having a rush of words, old-timer," drawled Talbot. "You just be a good little boy and behave yourself. We've had a nice little fight, plenty for one evening. Now let's get this billingsgate over with. I have a date back at the house."

Dave steadied himself with an effort. Talbot's sanity was like an icy shower on his raw nerves. There had been enough fighting for one evening and for a lifetime. The Italian, his hot black eyes very anxious, was waiting for an answer. The others behind him were staring silently.

"What's your proposition?" asked Dave, coldly. "This is a matter for the sheriff, you know. There have been men killed."

Coming to Terms.

"The Big Shot's killed," said the Italian. "So's Cockey and Little Joe and maybe some others. That lousy pilot has faded with the plane, see, and we want to get outa here. The Big Shot's got two cars in his garage. Suppose we take those cars and you give us enough time to get clear of this darn State. We'll never come back. There ain't one of us ever wants to see a palmetto again. So there ain't a chance we'll ever bother you again. If you go setting the bulls on us, there'll just be a lotta guys croaked and we'll shoot ourselves clear just the same, see? What do you say?"

"There's a ripe and lousy question of ethics for you, Dave," Talbot chuckled. The bland expression on his round face indicated that he was enjoying the situation hugely. "Seems to me that we have our own position to consider, too. The jury would have a fine time unscrambling who killed whom and why, and who deserve to be hanged and who doesn't."

"Listen, feller," broke in the Italian, eagerly. "There ain't nobody bumped off excepting the Big Shot, his personal pilot and some of our own torpedoes. There ain't none of your mob hurt any. So who the heck cares? There ain't been any coppers here since we come, and there ain't likely to be any for a long time. What do they care what happens in this lousy patch of scrub? Nobody has to know there's been any shooting here at all. How about it?"

Dear Sir:
Mr. Wheeler was not a Mason. I am not an Eastern Star but my husband and brothers and families were. I am not asking charity. All I want is my good name. I am self supporting, a lone widow past middle age. My good character is my bank account and my references will show who I am.

The article from the Pillager paper is all a black lie and I will prove it for Case county will pay for the way they mistreated me on July 15.

I owe for the Dispatch one or two months. I am too sick to call. The shock I received on that day I have been mostly in bed.

Thanking you for your courtesy.

He jammed on the brakes as the powerful car reached the side of the rusty little Ford. Hannah, almost incoherent in her joy, pushed herself to her feet, her ivory and gold teeth showing in a wide-mouthed smile.

"Fo' Gawd, Miss Joan," she shrieked. "I thought you was daid!"

Reluctantly Dave released the warm little hand that had slipped so trustingly into his own. There was silence on the field now, but at any instant the battle might break out anew.

"Can you get back to the house, Gerry," he asked, "before you have to change that tire?"

"Sure," Gerry nodded. "It's all shot now. Might as well finish it."

The Last Act.

"Hannah," said Dave. "You get in here with Miss Joan. Then everyone but Talbot beat it for the house. He and I have some business here."

Hannah rolled a mustang eye at Gerry. "Miss Joan," she begged, "I'll get in dis little bitzy car wid me. I doan' trus' dat man. He like to of killed me in dat house back yonder."

Barbara promptly crawled out of the Ford. "In that case," she said, "I'll ride back with Gerry darling. He seems to have sobered up."

Gerry sighed regretfully. "If I thought it might start another ruckus, I'd get me another skunkful," he said earnestly.

Joan descended from the Hispano-Suiza and climbed into the creaking Ford. She was still white and shaken. Sally patted her shoulder.

"Let's go, Talbot," said Dave, impatiently. "Those gunmen may start shooting again." His eyes met Joan's. He smiled softly and waved. "See you all later."

The two cars got under way. Dave resolutely turned his eyes toward the hangar. As he and Talbot walked warily across the field there was no sign of the gunmen. Except for the still forms that lay on the ground and for the brilliant illumination of the yawning shed, the place was as desolate as the abandoned sub-division of Cathay. The motor truck, its engine silent, stood alone near the hangar door. Mueller's sub-calibre machine gun lay almost on the concrete ramp.

Dave passed Joan's automatic to Talbot and picked up the heavy gun. Its clip of bullets was but half empty.

From the shadows of the orange grove came a hail.

"Hey, you guys!" "Get out of the light, Talbot," Dave snapped. Then, lifting his voice, "Well?"

"If we give up," came the voice, "will you let us get away?"

"Drop your guns and come over here," shouted Dave, grimly. "Keep your hands over your heads or I'll turn this machine gun on you."

First singly, then by twos and threes, Mueller's men straggled slowly, hesitatingly, across the moonlit clearing. When they had reached the brilliantly lighted space in front of the hangar door, Dave signalled for them to halt.

One man stepped forward. Dave's muscles grew taut. "It was Mueller's Italian bodyguard, the thick-necked gunman who had held him erect and helpless while the gang leader had battered him into unconsciousness."

"Listen, feller," said the Italian, smiling placatingly. "We all got enough, see? How about letting us go on the lam?"

"Talbot," said Dave, slowly, "you take this machine gun a minute. Keep the rest of those plug-uglies covered and if they move, let them have all the rest of the bullets in the clip. I'm going to tear that wop to pieces with my two hands."

"You're having a rush of words, old-timer," drawled Talbot. "You just be a good little boy and behave yourself. We've had a nice little fight, plenty for one evening. Now let's get this billingsgate over with. I have a date back at the house."

Dave steadied himself with an effort. Talbot's sanity was like an icy shower on his raw nerves. There had been enough fighting for one evening and for a lifetime. The Italian, his hot black eyes very anxious, was waiting for an answer. The others behind him were staring silently.

"What's your proposition?" asked Dave, coldly. "This is a matter for the sheriff, you know. There have been men killed."

Coming to Terms.

"The Big Shot's killed," said the Italian. "So's Cokey and Little Joe and maybe some others. That lousy pilot has faded with the plane, see, and we want to get outa here. The Big Shot's got two cars in his garage. Suppose we take those cars and you give us enough time to get clear of this darn State. We'll never come back. There ain't one of us ever wants to see a palmetto again. So there ain't a chance we'll ever bother you again. If you get setting the bulls on us, there'll just be a lotta guys croaked and we'll shoot ourselves clear just the same, see? What do you say?"

"There's a ripe and lusty question of ethics for you, Dave," Talbot chuckled. The bland expression on his round face indicated that he was enjoying the situation hugely. "Seems to me that we have our own position to consider, too. The jury would have a fine time unscrambling who killed whom and why, and who deserve to be hanged and who doesn't."

"Listen, feller," broke in the Italian, eagerly. "There ain't nobody bumped off excepting the Big Shot, his personal pilot and some of our own torpedoes. There ain't none of your mob hurt any. So who the heck cares? There ain't been any coppers here since we come, and there ain't likely to be any for a long time. What do they care what happens in this lousy patch of scrub? Nobody has to know there's been any shooting here at all. How about it?"

WALKER FIGHTS SHARKEY TO 15 ROUND DRAW LAST NIGHT

FIGHT PRODUCES
NO TITLE HOLDER,
ELIMINATES BOTH

NEITHER CONSIDERED FIT TO CHALLENGE SCHMELING
FOR CHAMPIONSHIP

SHARKEY FAILS TO CONTROL
HIS PUNCHES TO THE BODY OF OPPONENT

By DIXON STEWART
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

New York, July 23.—(U.P.)—Thanks to Mickey Walker's stout Irish heart and good left hand, the mystery that was Jack Sharkey is no more.

The Boston sailor, whose ability has been a subject of debate almost from the first day he donned boxing gloves, is a good middleweight, nothing more.

Sharkey proved his right to ranking among the top-flight of the middleweight class last night by fighting a 15-round draw with the retired middleweight champion in the annual New York milk fund charity show at Ebbets Field, Brooklyn.

The bout was advertised as an "American heavyweight championship" contest, but instead of producing a titleholder it effectively eliminated both principals from consideration as challengers for the championship now held by Max Schmeling of Germany.

On the basis of their performances last night, neither Sharkey, recognized by the New York State athletic commission as an outstanding contender for the title, nor Walker could be rated as a worthy opponent for the German champion.

Although he got no better than a draw for his effort, Sharkey appeared to have slightly the better of the bout. In this writer's opinion he had a clear margin in seven rounds, and held Walker even in five others, leaving out three rounds that Walker could call his own.

However, the performance was so unimpressive considering his tremendous physical advantage that the officials were justified in calling the contest a draw. One judge, George Kelly, named Sharkey as the winner; Referee Arthur Donovan voted for Walker; and Charles V. Mathison, rated generally as the most capable judge on the New York staff of officials, actually decided the contest with his vote of a draw.

Sharkey threw away his chance of winning the official decision by failure to control his punches to the body. Always a wild puncher, Sharkey was guilty of low blows in several rounds. Under the New York commission rules, which do not recognize fouls, low blows are penalized by loss of the round and because of this the officials were forced to give Walker several rounds in which Sharkey actually had the advantage.

Sharkey's failure to score a decisive triumph was one of the biggest upsets in pugilistic history. The Bostonian had every physical and mechanical advantage—outweighing Walker 188½ to 169½ pounds; towering over the squat Irishman by six inches; having a four inch margin in reach; and being the better boxer and harder hitter.

Sharkey actually made a good fight, one of the best of his career, but his best was not good enough to beat the stout-hearted Walker and it was proved conclusively that Jack lacks a real knockout punch, and that the myth of his right to world honors was unfounded.

Walker made a fine showing considering his physical disadvantages and was the hero of the contest to the 40,000 spectators who paid $200,000 to witness the show that he failed to show sufficient ability to warrant the belief that he will add the heavy-weight championship to his list of world titles. Mickey was backing away from Sharkey during the greater part of the bout, and gave most of his efforts to the defensive, with his offensive limited to occasional brilliant rallies during which he pelted Sharkey with hard left jabs.

Despite his defensive skill which enabled him to bob under Sharkey's right hand leads, Walker took a severe beating about the head. His left eye was cut as early as the fifth round and dripped blood for the balance of the fight. He looked considerably the worse for wear when the final bell sounded. Sharkey left the ring unmarked.

Walker made his best showing in the ninth and eleventh round. He got inside Sharkey's guard in the ninth and scored repeatedly with hard rights and lefts to the body. In the eleventh he tore into Sharkey from the start and gave the Bostonian a bad lacing about the body. Sharkey backed pedaled and appeared to be "dogging it" while the crowd, predominantly pro-Walker, shouted for a knockout. Even Gene Tunney, who professes to have no interest in boxing, got to his feet and cheered for the "toy bulldog."

Sharkey made his big bid for victory in the twelfth. Warned by his seconds that he must make a fast finish to win, he rushed out of his corner and chased Walker about the ring. He knocked Walker with a right to the head and pounded him up against the ropes, only to back away just when it appeared that he might put over a knockout. Except for that brief flurry Sharkey gave no evidence of punching ability.

Happy as a schoolboy over the great ovation he received as he left the ring, Walker said he was determined to continue fighting as a heavyweight and would not return to the middleweight class which he deserted for the Sharkey bout.

"I thought I beat him," he said, "but at least I fooled all the critics who said I'd be knocked out. Sharkey was gamer than I thought, but he kept tie-ing me up in the clinches and wouldn't fight except at long range."

Sharkey had no alibi for his failure and admitted that the bout was close but said he thought he deserved the decision.

"I made a mistake in thinking I could wear him down, but I'd been out of the ring too long and didn't have the strength. The 15 rounds of fighting was just what I needed to put me in shape and now I'm ready for Schmeling, Carnera, Loughran or anyone else."

RACIAL FIGHT IS PART OF MILLERS' WIN AT THE FALLS

MINNEAPOLIS MAN, STRUCK ON

Racial enmity caused when McDonald, colored hurler, sent a speedy ball into the left arm of Norris, shortstop, a southerner, cropped out in the game Wednesday at Little Falls which the Minneapolis Millers won with little trouble over the Falls semi-professional club, 5 to 0.

The fracas came in the first half of the fourth inning.

Struck by a fast ball Norris groaned, dropped the bat, looked at McDonald, then recovered his bat and started for him. As he approached the colored pitcher, McDonald pinned his arms. There was wild swinging of arms but an open fight was prevented by team mates.

Later, Norris is reported to have said:

"You know, that all made my southern blood boil."

Norris, it is understood, protested playing against the colored battery from the start.

The game marked the second for the two teams, Little Falls winning last year's encounter by 4 to 3.

Ed Walsh, former Notre Dame moundster, was the winning hurler, striking out six. McDonald whiffed five Millers but the professionals were stronger at bat, garnering nine hits to Little Falls' three.

McGowan, new Miller outfielder, cracked out a long home run into right field in the fifth. About 4,500 saw the game.

New York, July 23.—Pennant hopes of the New York Giants have faded considerably since they began their second invasion of the west ten days ago.

When the Giants left their home grounds they were in second place and were regarded as a serious threat to the St. Louis Cardinals for the National League leadership. But since that time Manager McGraw's boys have gone from bad to worse and today they were in fourth place, eight games behind the Cardinals.

The Giants dropped a notch in the standings yesterday when they lost a 4 to 3 decision to the lowly Cincinnati Reds. Apparently the six defeats in the eight games against St. Louis and Chicago had broken the spirit of the Giants for they played listless ball and Red Lucas coasted to victory under wraps.

Chicago advanced to third place by nosing out the Boston Braves 5 to 4 in 11 innings. The Cubs tied the score in the ninth and won on Hemsley's double, a base on balls and Engle's single.

Brooklyn remained within six games of St. Louis by dividing a twin bill with Pittsburgh. The Robins handed the Pirates the opener, 10 to 6, but held on to the aftermath, 3 to 2. The Pirates scored six runs in the sixth inning of the first game on one hit, four bases on balls, a hit batsman and two errors. Fred Heimach held the Pirates safe in the aftermath after his mates had given him a three-run lead off Kremer in the second inning.

The Cardinals and Philadelphia were idle because of rain.

Philadelphia increased its lead in the American League by whipping the Cleveland Indians, 7 to 3. A four-run attack in the seventh inning, featured by Williams' triple with the bases loaded, was all Rube Walberg needed to register his 14th triumph.

Washington dropped nine games behind the A's by losing an 8 to 4 verdict to the St. Louis Browns. Sam Gray yielded four runs in the first inning but was invincible after that.

New York and Detroit and Chicago and Boston divided double-headers.

After losing the first game 3 to 2 because they could do nothing with the pitching of George Uhle, the Yankees came back to win the aftermath, 9 to 5. Lou Gehrig hit his 29th home run of the season and Babe Ruth got his 24th and 25th.

The Red Sox nosed out Chicago in the first game 3 to 2 but Tommy Thomas evened the count for the White Sox in the nightcap.

LINDBERGH TO START FLIGHT TO ORIENT SHORTLY

SOME DAY NEXT WEEK IS SE-

WILL TRAVEL ROUTE BESET BY FOG, STORMS VIA POINT
BARROW, NOME

Englewood, N. J., July 23.—(U.P.)—Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh will start their summer vacation aerial tour to the Orient over a route beset with fog and storms via Point Barrow and Nome, Alaska, some day next week, he told the United Press today.

"The day, I wouldn't say right now, but we'll be ready any day after Sunday. One or two instruments must be put in the ship and it will be ready."

The Lindberghs will fly first to Washington to complete arrangements for papers they will need for themselves and their plane, then they will return to New York for a possible overnight stop before continuing their journey.

The trip over "the front yard of the north pole" to Japan and China will be made in a Lockheed Sirius equipped with pontoons in which the two have made several short trial flights.

The schedule as far as completed, and subject to changes the Lindberghs may make en route, will call for stops at Ottawa, Ont., Moose Factory, Baker's Lake via Churchill, Aklavik where the Mackenzie river finds an outlet, Point Barrow and Nome.

From Nome their route includes Karaginak and Petropavlovsk via Bering Sea down the Kamchatka Peninsula coast, thence to Nauru on the north Japan coast and from there to Tokyo.

"We have no set plans yet for China, and we have no schedule for arrival in Japan, nor are we certain when we'll start back," Lindbergh said.

WALKER FIGHTS SHARKEY TO 15 ROUND DRAW LAST NIGHT

MINNEAPOLIS EVENS SCORE, DEFEATS LITTLE FALLS

FIGHT PRODUCES
NO TITLE HOLDER,
ELIMINATES BOTH

NEITHER CONSIDERED FIT TO CHALLENGE SCHEMELING
FOR CHAMPIONSHIP

SHARKEY FAILS TO CONTROL
HIS PUNCHES TO THE BODY OF OPPONENT

By DIXON STEWART
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

New York, July 23.—(U.P.)—Thanks to Mickey Walker's stout Irish heart and good left hand, the mystery that was Jack Sharkey is no more.

The Boston sailor, whose ability has been a subject of debate almost from the first day he donned boxing gloves, is a good middleweight, nothing more. Sharkey proved his right to ranking among the top-flight of the middleweight class last night by fighting a 15-round draw with the retired middleweight champion in the annual New York milk fund charity show at Ebbets Field, Brooklyn.

The bout was advertised as an "American-heavyweight championship" contest, but instead of producing a title-holder it effectively eliminated both principals from consideration as challengers for the championship now held by Max Schmeling of Germany.

On the basis of their performances last night, neither Sharkey, recognized by the New York State athletic commission as an outstanding contender for the title, nor Walker could be rated as a worthy opponent for the German champion.

Although he got no better than a draw for his effort, Sharkey appeared to have slightly the better of the bout. In this writer's opinion he had a clear margin in seven rounds, and left Walker even in five others, leaving out three rounds that Walker could call his own.

However, the performance was so unimpressive considering his tremendous physical advantage that the officials were justified in calling the contest a draw. One judge, George Kelly, named Sharkey as the winner; Referee Arthur Donovan voted for Walker; and Charles V. Mathison, rated generally as the most capable judge on the New York staff of officials, actually decided the contest with his vote of a draw.

Sharkey threw away his chance of winning the official decision by failure to control his punches to the body. Always a wild puncher, Sharkey was guilty of low blows in several rounds. Under the New York commission rules, which do not recognize fouls, low blows are penalized by loss of the round and because of this the officials were forced to give Walker several rounds in which Sharkey actually had the advantage.

Sharkey's failure to score a decisive triumph was one of the biggest upsets in pugilistic history. The Bostonian had every physical and mechanical advantage—outweighing Walker 198½ to 169½ pounds; towering over the squat Irishman by six inches; having a four inch margin in reach; and being the better boxer and harder hitter.

Sharkey actually made a good fight, one of the best of his career, but his best was not good enough to beat the stout-hearted Walker and it was proved conclusively that Jack lacks a real knockout punch, and that the myth of his right to world honors was unfounded.

Walker made a fine showing considering his physical disadvantages and was the hero of the contest to the 40,000 spectators who paid $200,000 to witness the show that he failed to show sufficient ability to warrant the belief that he will add the heavy-weight championship to his list of world titles. Mickey was backing away from Sharkey during the greater part of the bout, and gave most of his efforts to the defensive, with his offensive limited to occasional brilliant rallies during which he pelted Sharkey with hard left jabs.

Despite his defensive skill which enabled him to bob under Sharkey's right hand leads, Walker took a severe beating about the head. His left eye was cut as early as the fifth round and dripped blood for the balance of the fight. He looked considerably the worse for wear when the final bell sounded. Sharkey left the ring unmarked.

Walker made his best showing in the ninth and eleventh round. He got inside Sharkey's guard in the ninth and scored repeatedly with hard rights and lefts to the body. In the eleventh he tore into Sharkey from the start and gave the Bostonian a bad lacing about the body. Sharkey back-pedaled and appeared to be "dogging it" while the crowd, predominantly pro-Walker, shouted for a knockout. Even Gene Tunney, who professes to have no interest in boxing, got to his feet and cheered for the "toy bulldog."

Sharkey made his big bid for victory in the twelfth. Warned by his seconds that he must make a fast finish to win, he rushed out of his corner and chased Walker about the ring. He knocked Walker with a right to the head and pounded him up against the ropes, only to back away just when it appeared that he might put over a knockout. Except for that brief flurry Sharkey gave no evidence of punching ability.

Happy as a schoolboy over the great ovation he received as he left the ring, Walker said he was determined to continue fighting as a heavyweight and would not return to the middleweight class which he deserted for the Sharkey bout.

"I thought I beat him," he said, "but at least I fooled all the critics who said I'd be knocked out. Sharkey was gamier than I thought, but he kept tie-ing me up in the clinches and wouldn't fight except at long range."

Sharkey had no alibi for his failure and admitted that the bout was close but said he thought he deserved the decision.

"I made a mistake in thinking I could wear him down, but I'd been out of the ring too long and didn't have the strength. The 15 rounds of fighting was just what I needed to put me in shape and now I'm ready for Schmeling, Carnera, Loughran or anyone else."

Racial enmity caused when McDonald, colored hurler, sent a speedy ball into the left arm of Norris, shortstop, a southerner, cropped out in the game Wednesday at Little Falls which the Minneapolis Millers won with little trouble over the Falls semi-professional club, 5 to 0.

The fracas came in the first half of the fourth inning.

Struck by a fast ball Norris groaned, dropped the bat, looked at McDonald, then recovered his bat and started for him. As he approached the colored pitcher, McDonald pinned his arms. There was wild swinging of arms but an open fight was prevented by team mates.

Later, Norris is reported to have said:

"You know that all made my southern blood boil."

Norris, it is understood, protested playing against the colored battery from the start.

The game marked the second for the two teams, Little Falls winning last year's encounter by 4 to 3.

Ed Walsh, former Notre Dame moundster, was the winning hurler, striking out six. McDonald whiffed five Millers but the professionals were stronger at bat, garnering nine hits to Little Falls' three.

McGowan, new Miller outfielder, cracked out a long home run into right field in the fifth. About 4,500 saw the game.

Englewood, N. J., July 23.—(U.P.)—Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh will start their summer vacation aerial tour to the Orient over a route beset with fog and storms via Point Barrow and Nome, Alaska, some day next week, he told the United Press today.

"The day, I wouldn't say right now, but we'll be ready any day after Sunday. One or two instruments must be put in the ship and it will be ready." The Lindberghs will fly first to Washington to complete arrangements for papers they will need for themselves and their plane, then they will return to New York for a possible overnight stop before continuing their journey.

Milton High in Ranks of Lovers of Liberty

Milton combined in his temperament the artist and the reformer. His love of beauty was excelled only by his love of duty, William Lyon Phelps writes, in the New York Evening Post.

The watchword of his life was liberty. Milton was so staunch a fighter for political liberty that in many parts of Europe he was regarded as an anarchist. His "Defense of the English People" was publicly burned at Paris and at Toulouse. When King Louis XIV required his ambassador at London to report on all the distinguished writers in England, the report contained "one named Miltonius, who has made himself more infamous by his dangerous writings than the murderers and assassins of the king."

Milton always stood for civil, domestic and religious liberty; and, like many sincere lovers of liberty, he had a magnificent talent for the inopportune. Nearly all the poets wrote odes in praise of Cromwell during his reign; but when King Charles II returned, these poets hastened under cover and saluted in verse the new regime. But in the very year of the king's return, 1660, Milton published a pamphlet called "A Ready and Easy Way to Establish a Free Commonwealth."

HERO BACK; FINDS SELF LEGALLY DEAD

Deserted U. S. Army and Joined Foreign Legion.

St. Joseph, Mo.—Arnold Godbey, a fighting man, knew that he had been hurt and injured in the French Sudan during the World war, but he did not know until recently that a court had done him a greater damage in declaring him legally dead.

Indeed it was a strange story of adventure that Godbey told his mother, Mrs. Grace Godbey Mulkey, when he appeared at her home and asked for his estate, which had already been divided in Probate court.

Godbey's story began when he was an adventure-seeking boy before the United States entered the World war. In 1917 he had a desire to enter the great conflict, which he had read about in the newspapers, although he was only sixteen years old when he enlisted in February of that year. He joined the marines.

Won Hero Medals.

His exploits as a marine won him the Croix de Guerre and the Distinguished Service medal. He was gassed several times, but he rose to the rank of second lieutenant.

When the war ended Godbey was mustered out of the service in Hoboken, August 3, 1919. Civilian life didn't appeal to him, so he re-enlisted. After six months he deserted and went to the French Foreign Legion and soon was off to French Sudan to quell the Riff uprising. There he found more fighting than he cared for.

A real battle with the Riffs ensued. The Foreign Legion rode camels that day in 1920. The Riffs didn't mind hand-to-hand fighting and met the legionnaires eye to eye and when it was over Godbey was left for dead.

Two days later persons passing over the battlefield found the American and took him to a French military hospital, where he was kept for two years before he was discharged as fully recovered in 1928.

Tried for Desertion.

He went to Spain, where he was seized with a desire to see his native land again. He obtained a job on a Spanish freighter bound for America.

The freighter brought him to Brooklyn three months ago, where he surrendered to marine authorities.

He was tried for desertion, but because of his World war record the court's leniency gave him a dishonorable discharge as his only punishment, with the promise that six months' good behavior would result in granting him an honorable discharge.

He arrived here just in time to learn that the Probate court was dividing his adjusted compensation certificate. He is claiming the estate on the grounds that he is alive. And it looks as if he has a good case.

Colorado Man Catches

Peculiar Looking Fish

Pueblo, Colo.—Al Severson went fishing and caught for himself a neoturus.

A neoturus is a weird looking animal, a cross between a water salamander and catfish. It is a genus salamander—and is one of the largest members of the family. It is found in the eastern and central portion of this country, but so far as is known Severson's specimen is the first ever caught in Colorado.

The animal, about nine inches long, of gray-green color, with skin like a catfish, has four legs, with four toes on the front feet and five on the rear, and it has six external gills.

It can live for some time out of water.

Severson, who captured the animal alive, kept it in a jar filled with water for five weeks, but it has refused all food.

Goodnight, What a Name! but Owner Gets His Bed

Des Moines, Iowa.—A young man walked into the police station here. "Your name?" asked the jailer. "Goodnight," replied the youth preparing for sleep.

"Just a minute, sonny," shouted the jailer. "I asked your name."

"Goodnight," patiently responded the youth.

"No more wise cracks!" said the jailer.

"My name," said the young man, is John Goodnight."

"Goodnight!" exclaimed the jailer, and Goodnight went to bed.

Baby Gorilla Waxing Fat on Goat Milk

St. Louis, Mo.—Yonah has a goat all her own. And the goat has been instrumental in making Yonah fat.

Yonah is the St. Louis zoo's baby gorilla. Since baby gorillas in captivity are rare, zoo attendants were puzzled about just how to go about feeding Yonah. They weren't familiar with the necessary diet.

Then August A. Busch donated a goat to Yonah. So the gorilla's attendants began feeding her goat milk. In ten days the animal gained 22 ounces.

Now the gorilla's diet includes spinach, graham crackers, bananas, molasses, oranges, lettuce, and bone meal, aside from the milk.

Balky Nag Atones With Mark

Here's the start and finish of one horse's race, which makes this an unusual picture, indeed. Zymri, three-year-old, didn't even wait to get going like good spill-horses do, but reared high at the very start of sulky meet in Lewiston, Maine. Note the wire barrier still taut. The driver, Charlie Mason, was trampled almost to death, but desiring to atone for all this, Zymri quieted down and was hitched to a new sulky to set a record for the track.

HERO BACK; FINDS SELF LEGALLY DEAD

Deserted U. S. Army and Joined Foreign Legion.

St. Joseph, Mo.—Arnold Godbey, a fighting man, knew that he had been hurt and injured in the French Sudan during the World war, but he did not know until recently that a court had done him a greater damage in declaring him legally dead.

Indeed it was a strange story of adventure that Godbey told his mother, Mrs. Grace Godbey Mulkey, when he appeared at her home and asked for his estate, which had already been divided in Probate court.

Godbey's story began when he was an adventure-seeking boy before the United States entered the World war. In 1917 he had a desire to enter the great conflict, which he had read about in the newspapers, although he was only sixteen years old when he enlisted in February of that year. He joined the marines.

Won Hero Medals.

His exploits as a marine won him the Croix de Guerre and the Distinguished Service medal. He was gassed several times, but he rose to the rank of second lieutenant.

When the war ended Godbey was mustered out of the service in Hoboken, August 3, 1919. Civilian life didn't appeal to him, so he re-enlisted.

After six months he deserted and went to the French Foreign Legion and soon was off to French Sudan to quell the Riff uprising. There he found more fighting than he cared for.

A real battle with the Riffs ensued. The Foreign Legion rode camels that day in 1926. The Riffs didn't mind hand-to-hand fighting and met the legionnaires eye to eye and when it was over Godbey was left for dead.

Two days later persons passing over the battlefield found the American and took him to a French military hospital, where he was kept for two years before he was discharged as fully recovered in 1928.

Tried for Desertion.

He went to Spain, where he was seized with a desire to see his native land again. He obtained a job on a Spanish freighter bound for America.

The freighter brought him to Brooklyn three months ago, where he surrendered to marine authorities.

He was tried for desertion, but because of his World war record the court's leniency gave him a dishonorable discharge as his only punishment, with the promise that six months' good behavior would result in granting him an honorable discharge.

He arrived here just in time to learn that the Probate court was dividing his adjusted compensation certificate. He is claiming the estate on the grounds that he is alive. And it looks as if he has a good case.

Colorado Man Catches

Peculiar Looking Fish

Pueblo, Colo.—Al Severson went fishing and caught for himself a necturus.

A necturus is a weird looking animal, a cross between a water salamander and catfish. It is a genus salamander—and is one of the largest members of the family. It is found in the eastern and central portion of this country, but so far as is known Severson's specimen is the first ever caught in Colorado.

The animal, about nine inches long, of gray-green color, with skin like a catfish, has four legs, with four toes on the front feet and five on the rear, and it has six external gills.

It can live for some time out of water.

Severson, who captured the animal alive, kept it in a jar filled with water for five weeks, but it has refused all food.

Goodnight, What a Name! but Owner Gets His Bed

Des Moines, Iowa.—A young man walked into the police station here. "Your name?" asked the jailer.

"Goodnight," replied the youth preparing for sleep.

"Just a minute, sonny," shouted the jailer. "I asked your name."

"Goodnight," patiently responded the youth.

"No more wise cracks!" said the jailer.

"My name," said the young man, is John Goodnight."

"Goodnight!" exclaimed the jailer, and Goodnight went to bed.

Baby Gorilla Waxing Fat on Goat Milk

St. Louis, Mo.—Yannah has a goat all her own. And the goat has been instrumental in making Yannah fat.

Yannah is the St. Louis zoo's baby gorilla. Since baby gorillas in captivity are rare, zoo attendants were puzzled about just how to go about feeding Yannah. They weren't familiar with the necessary diet.

Then August A. Busch donated a goat to Yannah. So the gorilla's attendants began feeding her goat milk. In ten days the animal gained 22 ounces.

Now the gorilla's diet includes spinach, graham crackers, bananas, molasses, oranges, lettuce, and bone meal, aside from the milk.

RANGE PROTESTS TO COMMISSIONERS

Delegation Complains Cuyuna Range Not Receiving Its Share of R. B. Fund

NO ACTION IS TAKEN

Figures Cited to Show That of $195,000 Spent Last Year Range Only Got $6,000

A delegation of 15 business men, mining men, and farmers from the Cuyuna Range protested to the Crow Wing County Board of Commissioners here yesterday afternoon the distribution of moneys from the road and bridge fund in Crow Wing county.

The men representing Crosby, Ironton, Cuyuna, Deerwood and the country surrounding complained that the range was not receiving its just proportion in road improvements and maintenance.

Figures were cited, revealing that of the $195,000 spent for road and bridge last year only a little more than $6,000 went to the range.

J. Wilbur Van Evert, Crosby, acted as chief spokesman for the delegation. The commissioners took no definite action.

The following complaints were aired by the delegates:

That the Cuyuna Range road construction work last year totaled only $6,178 of the $59,000 actually spent by the county on roads improvement and that Brainerd and territory received $52,850 in improvements.

That Brainerd has five county maintained highways entering the city while Crosby and Ironton only have two.

That the new Pine Beach hotel road was paid for with Crow Wing county money when it should have been a Cass county project.

That an oral agreement that the Bay Lake to Deerwood road would be tarred the year after the placing of tar on the road between Brainerd and Merrifield road was not fulfilled.

Took exception to the tar improvement on the so called Grand View lodge road.

Asked separation of construction costs and maintenance costs so that an accurate check of expenditures could be kept.

That road No. 4 maintenance costs were wasted since money was being paid for maintaining this work and no work was done the past two years.

That better systemized and economical methods be used in maintenance work.

The commissioners' defense was based principally that over a number of years the Cuyuna Range had received an equal portion of the distribution of road and bridge funds with other parts of the county.

Commissioner Frank Lowey defended the expenditure of the Pine Beach hotel road, stating that the cost of the road was taken care of by special appropriation from State Highway Commissioner Babcock.

"I took this matter up with Babcock personally. The first year $8,000 was taken out of the gas fund for this purpose and this year $5,000 was appropriated," he said.

County Highway Engineer Walter M. Murphy explained in connection with the Bay Lake-Deerwood road that the placing of oil on the road was more practical than tar since the road was clay surfaced.

Commissioner Lowey further defended the action of the board in the Grand View lodge road.

"People of that section realizing the benefits of the road put up $500 and the town board placed in $2500 and then brought the proposition to the commissioners. No such proposal was made on the Deerwood road," he said.

Taking exception to the manner in which maintenance was done, one of the objectors cited the case of a man with a team working on the filling in of a sink hole. He complained that while the man was kept busy the team was idle four fifths of the time. The suggestion was made that more men be put to work to do the work quicker without a waste of effort. Preference for trucks instead of teams in road work was also expressed.

fended the expenditure of the Pine Beach hotel road, stating that the cost of the road was taken care of by special appropriation from State Highway Commissioner Babcock.

"I took this matter up with Babcock personally. The first year $8,000 was taken out of the gas fund for this purpose and this year $5,000 was appropriated," he said.

County Highway Engineer Walter M. Murphy explained in connection with the Bay Lake-Deerwood road that the placing of oil on the road was more practical than tar since the road was clay surfaced.

Commissioner Lowey further defended the action of the board in the Grand View lodge road.

"People of that section realizing the benefits of the road put up $500 and the town board placed in $2500 and then brought the proposition to the commissioners. No such proposal was made on the Deerwood road," he said.

Taking exception to the manner in which maintenance was done, one of the objectors cited the case of a man with a team working on the filling in of a sink hole. He complained that while the man was kept busy the team was idle four fifths of the time. The suggestion was made that more men be put to work to do the work quicker without a waste of effort. Preference for trucks instead of teams in road work was also expressed.

Household Sweepers

Common brooms are made of panicles, or tops of broom corn bound together, and were also formerly made of the twigs of the plan broom. The coarse brooms used in street sweeping are manufactured chiefly from the twigs of the Colubine palm. Brooms are also made of Piassaba fiber and other materials. Snow brooms and sometimes yard brooms are made of wire or much coarser material, and are much larger than house brooms.

Odd Malay Belief

The Malay has a novel explanation to offer concerning the cause of earthquakes, which are quite plentiful in that part of the world. They will tell you that the earth is a sort of egg, resting on the horns of a bull. When the bull gets angry and shakes his head an earthquake results.

Manners must adorn knowledge, and smooth its way through the world. Like a great rough diamond it may do very well in a closet by way of curiosity, and also for its intrinsic value.—Earl of Chesterfield.

End Piles Quick How One Woman Lost 20 Pounds of Fat

No Salves—No Cutting

Your itching, bleeding, protruding piles will go when you actually remove the cause—bad blood circulation in the weak, flabby parts—and not one minute before. Salves or cutting can't do this—an internal remedy must be used. HEM-ROID, prescription of Dr. J. S. Leonhardt, succeeds because it stimulates the circulation, drives out congested blood, heals and restores the almost dead parts. HEM-ROID has such a wonderful record right in this city, that H. P. Dunn and Johnson's Pharmacy say one bottle of HEM-ROID Tablets must end your Pile agony or money back.

If you're fat—first remove the cause! Take one half teaspoonful of KRUSCHEN SALTS in a glass of hot water every morning—in 3 weeks get on the scales and note how many pounds of fat have vanished.

Notice also that you have gained in energy—your skin is clearer—you feel younger in body—KRUSCHEN will give any fat person a joyous surprise.

Get an 85c bottle of KRUSCHEN SALTS from Johnson's Pharmacy, Economy Drug Co. or any leading druggist anywhere in America (lasts 4 weeks). If this first bottle doesn't convince you this is the easiest, safest and surest way to lose fat—your money gladly returned.

Stimson Welcomed in Rome

Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson (center), arriving in Rome to urge disarmament and help straighten out economic ills of Europe, was cordially welcomed to Italy by Signor Grandi (right), Foreign Minister, and the American Ambassador, Mr. Garrett (left). Household Sweepers

Common brooms are made of panicles, or tops of broom corn bound together, and were also formerly made of the twigs of the plan broom. The coarse brooms used in street sweeping are manufactured chiefly from the twigs of the Cohune palm. Brooms are also made of Plassaba fiber and other materials. Snow brooms and sometimes yard brooms are made of wire or much coarser material, and are much larger than house brooms.

Odd Malay Belief

The Malay has a novel explanation to offer concerning the cause of earthquakes, which are quite plentiful in that part of the world. They will tell you that the earth is a sort of egg, resting on the horns of a bull. When the bull gets angry and shakes his head an earthquake results.

Manners and Knowledge
Manners must adorn knowledge, and smooth its way through the world. Like a great rough diamond it may do very well in a closet by way of curiosity, and also for its intrinsic value.—Earl of Chesterfield.

Sunstroke Easy to Acquire
In the equatorial regions you may get a sunstroke from 18 seconds' exposure. You can also get one under canvas or below an iron roof. The last is a slower process.
